Colby Warns Powerful Forces Will Kill Over This

Conspiracy of Silence

Since the Chater Title is "Colby Warns Powerful Forces Will Kill Over This" and the graphic is ColbtWarnsTheCIAwilKillOverThis.png (sic) what is it powerfull forces will kill over? Franlin, NE, McMartin in Manhattan Beach City, these as black CIA sites were MK-Ultra research was done in hidden programs on those with hidden identities

He and John DeCamp (also Donegan connected) was warning Gary Cardori and others this went way back into the Cold War and while not saying it here it was why following the assasination of JFK and Gerald Ford taking office Colby was fired (memoir Men of Honor).

This is what Jen Moore was also documenting before her death, and Prouty (again a person I have connections to) asserted Indonesia was part of that MK-Ultra progam. John DeCamp who worked fo Colby and the CIA during Coby cover-identity as Embassador to Vietnam) believes is is at least possible Colby himself was killed by those powerfull forces and while no on believed Ted Gunderson he made the same set of assertions.

I had written or said, I have forgotten which that a member of the US Press would rather die hanging from a tree branch with a broken neck rather than mention TWA 800, UAL 553, or any other story today. This is the Conspiracy of Silence run in the USA by the Media who protect the public from the real truth. Unfortunately nooses are planted near where I am so that idea of gruesome execution of Conspirators for Treason just gets used against me the victim. If you want to know who the press is really in bed with photograph the parking lots and I think I have 200 such photos and Jen Moore refered to that as well.

I assert attacks on me are created when slander about me incites them and that Nancy Guthrie could have been a witness to this.

On the Trail of the Assassins and the Press on the Trail of Witnesses

More often than not the thugs sent to commit break-ins to homes, plant evidence, fabricate stories about gambling, headline-seeking, child porn or other allegations are frequently visibly operating out of press broadcast areas, city halls such as in Austin, work for the police and fire, etc.,

On the Trail of the Assasins

Life articles about organized crime. It gave particular attention to me as a free-wheeling visitor at Las Vegas casinos from time to time. The writer of the article had some problems working me into the scenario because, as it happens, I do not gamble at all. It is not that I am too virtuous. I simply observed a long time ago that the house always wins.

However, that detail did not inhibit the editors of Life. I was described as having a special Las Vegas connection who was a “lieutenant” of a New Orleans “mobster.” I reportedly was “granted a $5,000 credit in the cashier’s cage.” The implication was that I used this credit to sign chits during my alleged forays at the gambling tables.

It was true that I filled out a form once when I had to cash a check at the Sands Hotel. This apparently is where I acquired such credit, if indeed I had that much. It was also true that I took trips to Las Vegas about twice a year, but they were entirely for the purpose of getting out into the dry western climate, which I happen to love, and catching up with some sunshine. That was all that was needed for me to become Life’s version of The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo.

Around the time of the Life article about my fictional gaming proclivities at Las Vegas, Time magazine—a sister publication of Life’s and a part of the Luce empire—ran a series of articles on our investigation. It was pictured as an indefensible sham, and I as a demented buffoon, hungry for headlines.

None of the publications I read seemed to consider the possibility that our investigation might have some legitimate evidentiary basis and that John Kennedy may indeed have been the victim of a conspiracy. The New York Times Magazine once—and then very briefly—did confront the issue of a conspiracy. The article appeared under the catchy title "No Conspiracy, But—Two Assassins, Perhaps?" The author, an Englishman named Henry Fairlie, stated, incredibly enough, that neither in Europe nor in America had he found much popular interest in the possibility that the Warren Commission had reached the wrong conclusions. He did acknowledge, however, that "doubt has been aroused" and went on to express his concern that such doubt "may become an obsession in at least some quarters—perhaps eventually in the popular mind, which has so far been resistant."

In time we learned that the N.B.C. investigators had found their way to the State Penitentiary at Angola, where they had been questioning Miguel Torres, a professional burglar, and other inmates.

It was just about then that we suddenly realized that N.B.C. was not investigating the assassination at all. It was investigating us—me, my office, my staff, and our investigation. One of the sources who told us of N.B.C.'s plans was Marlene Mancuso, who had once been married to Gordon Novel.* She wrote in a memo to us that she had been contacted by a reporter for N.B.C.:

> Richard Townley told me that he had been trying to contact me for a couple of weeks. He said that he worked for N.B. C. and that his intuition told him that I would be involved eventually. …
>
> He said Mr. Garrison would get a jail sentence. He said he figured that I was going to be Mr. Garrison's star witness, and that Mr. Garrison was going to use me to discredit Gordon and make him appear as a second Oswald. He kept going back that he wanted a taped interview that would show me in a good light. He said that otherwise I would probably be subpoenaed and there would be a lots [sic] of newspapermen around me and a state of confusion and I would look very bad …

> Townley kept telling me that it would be more intelligent to be presented nicely than to be shown in a bad light coming out of the courtroom … He said they are going to expose Mr. Garrison as a fraud and that he is working with N. B.C., out of WDSU, on this…
